Nolan had this to say regarding his plans for Nelson:
"We shall be on the road for four or five weeks. Meantime, we with anybody, excepting, of course, Joe Gans, whom we bar because of his color and faking character. We can get a $15,000 purse for Herrera, but don't think the amount big enough, as we rate him, next to Nelson, the best boy in the business. They want the Dans at Essington, and we shall be glad to go there, if the guarantee is all right."

and we shall be glad to go there, it the guarantee is all right."

Denies Story.

Nelson took occasion to deny that he had said in New York that McGovern could beat Jimmy Britt.

"He never saw that day," said the Battler. I can relt a little story of those two men which may not be known in this section of the country. While McGovern was training in San Francisco for Oscar Gardner in 1901 Jimmy Britt, who was then an almost unknown amateur, was taken to Tetry's camp to give the latter some boxing exercise. It was expected that McGovern would smother Britt, but to everybody's astonishment Britt had the better of the bout and knocked Terry down twice. That made Britt's friends realize that Jimmy had good material in him, and they persuaded him to enter the professional ranks. If Britt could do that to McGovern when the latter was in his prime, what chimee has Terry got now?"

Many Names Suggested.

Richmond, Manchester, Petersburg, and Barton Heights ladies, are yet anxious to win the searon tleket, admitting two to all games played on the Richmond diamond this seasion, and each mail brings the sporting editor on the Times-Dispatch numerous letters suggesting the most appropriate name for the Richmond crowd of ballologists.

Bomething more than three hundred suggestions have been received and they came from almost as many ladies. A few have written twice, thereby taking two cliances at winnig the prizo.

The contest will not last longer than this week, and the name of the lady winning, will be printed along with a photo of herself.

Hanover Street, writing yesterday, suggests that the Richmond aggregation of diamond workers be known as the "Richmond Dispatchers" or the "Richmond Dispatchers" or the "Richmond Times." The Times-Dispatch, she adds, is always alive with good base-ball news, and the team should be named after the paper.

And West Grace Street says that so far

Thomas, pitcher; Cosby, catcher; Ford, first base; Schwartz, second base; O'Nelli, third base; Orbaugh, short stop; Johnson, right field; Hindewater, centre field; Johnson, right field. Among the new men who will try for positions are Krouse, Wilkinson, right field. Among the new men who will try for positions and Herbert. Mr. W. H. Herbert is manuer, and he will be glad to receive challenges from any other of the teams of the city.

Much interest is being aroused among the men as to the bars-ball team, and they expect to put a crack aggregation in the field, Many of the men are experts at handling the sphere and wielding the bat, and the team that will ultimately be organized will make up a strong nine. The men will probably have their first practice Saturday afternoon. Company B will drill to-night, with Captain A. W. Miller in charge, It is expected that they will also arrange for a team to represent them on the diamond.

At 10 o'clock this morning the State Mets."

Amateur Base-Ball.

Baseball in Richmond this year, will not entirely be confined to the games played in Broad Stret Park, between teams in the Virginia State League.

More than two score nines will be organized among the youngsters in the different sections of Richmond, in Manchester, Barton Heights and Chestnut Hill.

Alread the young players are getting together and some of the older heads are assisting the small ones in organizing leagues. Future diamond stars may be turned out from some league that will this summer play all of its games on some back lot.

The sporting editor of the Times-Dispatch has something more than a thousand blanks upon which the different capitalns of the amateur teams might keep the scores of the games played, and if these captains, after their selection, will apply at this office, they can secure the biants.

The Times-Dispatch will, through the baseball season, print the scores of all animeteur games and will give the names of the players.

Last year some excellent ball players were with the Capital City League and this organization will be heard from again this summer.

Manchester will have a strong team of amateurs to go up against any clied that Richmond sends out; and Barton Heightis is now think of putting a fight? mond.

At 10 o'clock this morning the State
Military Board will meet in the Governor's office to make plans for the improvement of the State militia. Governor Swanson will preside, and there will be in attendance Adjutant-General Anderson, Colonel George Wayne Anderson,
Colonel to Lone Stern and Secretary D.
